Delivering meaningful value to our customers and shareholders, working with exceptional product and engineering teams, and solving complex challenges are part of what I love most about both my 20+ year career and working with this company. I've been working in product centric technology companies that span the domains of health, advertising, ecommerce and HR. Nothing delights more than seeing customers light up when they have a great experience with the products we work so hard to build.

Vacation Spot: Disney World

Fun Fact: Grew up in rural North Carolina and spent my early years learning to code on a Commodore 128 computer
